PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "Quality in Clinical Laboratory"

Date of activity: 22/11/2019

Venue: Biochemistry Demo Hall 2

Organized by: ED Cell

Resource person: Dr Veerabadra Goud, Associate Professor, Akash Medical College,
Bangalore

Number of participants: 89 Students & 13 Faculty

Objective of the program

The main objective of the seminar is to make everyone aware and know about the principles of quality assurance, quality control, and quality management are bases for good laboratory results and workings. Every test in the laboratory gives a result. To be sure about the accuracy of the result is not possible until it is verified by some means. It is the quality control that will give confidence about the result. This is the duty of the technicians to be sure about the accuracy of the test result.

Contents Delivered

- Control objectives
- Tools used for quality control
- Quality assurance

Outcome of the program

The seminar conducted on Quality in Clinical Laboratory through which management of quality control can ensure accuracy and precision of both quality and patient results. The focus on trends and biases is a good identification of potential changes in results that can affect accuracy of overall results.

PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "EQAS-proficiency testing tool"

Date of activity: 02/03/2019

Venue: Biochemistry Demo Hall 2

Organized by: R&D Cell

Resource person: Dr Ravi kumar, Associate Professor, Department of Biochemistry,
Mamata Medical College, Hyderabad.

Number of participants: 83 Students & 14 Faculty

Objective of the program

The main objective of the seminar is monitoring and documenting the analytical quality, to identify poor performance, detect analytical errors, and make corrective actions.

Contents Delivered

- Differences between Quality control and Proficiency testing
- EQA in Testing
- Phases and benefits of EQA

Outcome of the program

Laboratory proficiency testing helps initiate processes to identify sources of error across all the analytic testing phases and can be used to evaluate both staff and assay performances. Bio-Rad EQAS program gives access to a fully accredited, comprehensive program, large peer groups, and technical support from experienced specialists— for an independent and confidential external quality assessment of your lab's performance.

PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "Seminar on IPR"

Date of activity: 12/09/2019

Venue: Demo Hall-II, Biochemistry

Organized by: IPR Cell

Resource person: Dr Shaila Parveen, Incubation Centre Manager, Sristi BIRAC Bionest, Ahmedabad

Number of participants: 94 Students & 12 Faculty

Objective of the program

India has made significant strides in competing for Trade Related Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS) agreements and compliance with US and European Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) structures. The twenty-first century can be referred to as the century of technology, knowledge, and, in fact, the intellectual regime. The country's ability to translate knowledge into wealth-creating innovation will determine its future. Thus, innovation is thought to be the key to transforming knowledge into wealth. As a result, issues concerning the generation, evaluation, protection, and exploitation of intellectual property (IP) would become critically important all over the world.

PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "Suture techniques on rexin material"

Date of activity: 03/04/2019

Venue: Demo Hall-II, Biochemistry

Organized by: R&D Cell

Resource person: Gen surgery

Number of participants: 95 Students & 13 Faculty

Objective of the program

The basic objective of Suture techniques on rexin material is to identify different suture materials and needles. Demonstrate wound closure techniques. Describe suture after care. Discuss management of more complex wound closure.

Contents Delivered

- Methods used
- Materials required
- Uses and Purpose

Outcome of the program

The seminar concentrated on the seminar on Suture techniques on rexin material although suture materials and aspects of the technique have changed, the primary goals remain the same, as follows:

- Closing dead space.
- Supporting and strengthening wounds until healing increases their tensile strength.
- Approximating skin edges for an aesthetically pleasing and functional result.

PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "Intramuscular injection techniques on vegetable"

Date of activity: 02/01/2019

Venue: Demo Hall-II, Biochemistry

Organized by: ED Cell

Resource person: Gen Surgery

Number of participants: 87 Students & 12 Faculty

Objective of the program

The main objective of the program is to know about Intramuscular injection techniques and various methods. Intramuscular injections are absorbed faster than subcutaneous injections. This is because muscle tissue has a greater blood supply than the tissue just under your skin. Muscle tissue can also hold a larger volume of medication than subcutaneous tissue.

Contents Delivered

- Identifying intramuscular injection site
- How to administer an intramuscular injection
- Tips for an easier injection
- Complications in Intramuscular injection

Outcome of the program

The students and faculty got knowledge and trained about Intramuscular injection (IM) and installing medications into the depth of specifically selected muscles. The bulky muscles have good vascularity, and therefore the injected drug quickly reaches the systemic circulation and thereafter into the specific region of action, bypassing the first-pass metabolism.

PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "Seminar on importance of biomedical waste management"

Date of activity: 26/03/2019

Venue: Demo Hall-II, Biochemistry, and Microbiology Laboratory

Organized by: ED Cell

Resource person: Dr Veerbhadra Goud, Associate Professor, Akash Medical College,
Bangalore.

Number of participants: 91 Students & 12 Faculty

Objective of the program

The main objective of the seminar is to make everyone aware and protect our environment from pollution and contamination and repair and reduce the damage caused by pollution. Irresponsibly disposed of waste can lead to various diseases and can harm people.

Contents Delivered

- Separation (segregation)
- Identification (different color-coded bags)
- Handling (collection, measurement, storage, transport)
- Treatment (off-site and on-site)
- Waste reduction (by shredding)
- Disposal.

PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "Seminar on ADR"

Date of activity: 29/01/2019

Venue: Demo Hall-II, Biochemistry, and Microbiology Laboratory

Organized by: R&D Cell

Resource person: Dr Madhukar Rao P, Assistant Professor, Department of Pharmacology, Pratima Institute of Medical Sciences..

Number of participants: 91 Students & 12 Faculty

Objective of the program

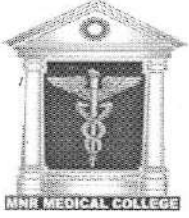

The main objective of the seminar is to analyze the clinical characteristics and reporting quality of adverse drug reactions (ADRs) by undergraduate medical students in comparison with physicians' reporting.

Contents Delivered

We sensitized the second professional year undergraduate medical students about pharmacovigilance and asked them to submit reports of ADR observed during their clinical posting from January to December 2015. We compared students' reports with those sent by physicians (Department of Medicine and Allied Branches, Paediatric, Obstetrics and Gynaecology) of our institute during the same time period. We included ADRs of "certain," "probable," or "possible" categories as per the World Health Organization causality definitions in analysis of both groups. We excluded "unlikely," "unclassified," and "unclassifiable" causality ADRs from the analysis due to questionable association of reactions with suspected drugs. We collected data of demographics, pattern of ADRs, causative drugs, seriousness, other clinical characteristics, and quality of reporting.

Outcome of the program

Students' reported valuable and clinically relevant ADRs. Medical students should be exposed to ADR reporting during their clinical teaching posting and should be actively involved in pharmacovigilance program to improve detection rate.

PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "Plagiarism in Medical Research"

Date of activity: 16/09/2019

Venue: Biochemistry Demo Hall 2

Organized by: R&D Cell

Resource person: Dr Anshuman Verma, Junior Research Scientist, LV Prasad Eye Hospital,
Hyderabad

Number of participants: 74 Students & 13 Faculty

Objective of the program

The main objective of the seminar is to make everyone aware and know about Plagiarism. Plagiarism constitutes a breach of academic integrity and represents substandard scholarship. Plagiarism can have lasting impact on the future career, regardless of whether it was intentional or not. The responsibility to avoid plagiarism belongs with the student or researcher.

Contents Delivered

- Types of Plagiarism
- Better research reading, writing and publishing
- Importance and Significance of Plagiarism

Outcome of the program

The seminar concentrated on the good clinical practice by learning basics of how to handle the biomedical waste and how the biomedical waste should be managed. The seminar also put view on how a good biomedical waste management will help to avoid the risk of contamination and also self risk from such hazardous waste material generated in hospital.
