PROGRAM REPORT

Program Name: "Demonstration of Injury on fruit"

Date of activity: 17/12/2018

Venue: Demo Hall-II, Biochemistry

Organized by: R&D Cell

Resource person: Dr Kiran Jumar J, Professor, Department of Forensic Medicine, St Paul's Hospital & Millennium Medical College, Ethiopia

Number of participants: 95 Students & 14 Faculty

Objective of the program

This study aims to highlight the potential serious complications of acute kidney injury (AKI) resulting from the consumption of excessive amounts of starfruit, a common traditional remedy.

Contents

- Chief complaints
- History of present illness
- Personal and Family history
- Physical examination
- Laboratory examinations

Outcome of the program

In Asian countries where star fruit is commonly consumed as a traditional remedy, it is imperative for emergency physicians to be aware of starfruit toxicity in patients with unexplained AKI. This will help identify and treat these patients promptly to prevent starfruit-induced nephrotoxicity. Patient history is the key to reaching an early diagnosis. It is essential to prevent starfruit nephrotoxicity by educating the public and especially diabetics on the risks of consuming excess starfruit.
