

7.3 Institutional Distinctiveness

To inculcate the value of writing scientific papers and publishing it in Indexed Journals among faculty members of the college.

The purpose of quality research promotion our institute has established FRI. The first part of the practice includes, encouraging the faculty to write a scientific proposal which then are verified by the institutional research and ethical committees. If not approved the committee suggests appropriate modifications and ask them to re submit. All the approved proposals are encouraged to complete the study by either giving seed funding for pilot projects or the projects are directed to get external funding. The study findings are encouraged to present as presentations in workshops, conferences at both national and international levels. Once the study is accomplished, it is encouraged to fructify into a publication in an indexed journal. To, encourage this the institute supports financially in the form of incentives to the corresponding author.
